enuka (name changed), 28 from Vikarabad recently approached Hegde Fertility due to frustration and anxiety arising from difficulty in conceiving a baby. Renuka has been married for four years and has been trying to get pregnant for the past three years. When she went to the hospital, Dr Sneha Shetty did a detailed evaluation. She informed, "The examination showed no significant medical or surgical history or even menstrual problems. Renuka is a non-smoker, non-alcoholic and has been following a healthy diet. But she did reveal that her husband had ejaculation issues." An exteninvestiga tion of the couple was needed to decide the most suitable ment. "We conbasic tests for general health assessment, pelvic scan, blood tests to assess her ovarian reserve and fallopian tube patency test," shares Dr Sneha adding, "Results showed that Renuka was fine and even her husband's semen analysis test was normal but premature ejaculation during intercourse was the cause of failure in conception.

IUI - A saviour for couples trying to conceive In the case of Renuka, intrauterine insemination was the most suitable option. Sneha said, "We asked her to come on her second day of the period for ovulation induction using oral medication to regulate and track ovulation. Afterward, serial follicular monitoring was assess the size of follicles. On the 12th day of her cycle, Renuka's follicle was ready and trigger injection was given. After 36 hours, her husband was asked to visit the hospital to give his semen sample. IUI was performed using the husband's semen.

The process of IUI

The collected semen sample was processed in the andrology laboratory and the best sperms with good motility and normal morphology were separated. Dr Sneha says, "An IUI catheter was passed through the cervix and the processed semen sample was injected into the uterus. This might be uncomfortable but not painful. After the IUI, the patient was put on progesterone support medication for 15 days. A confirmed she was finally pregnant." Not every couple requires advanced ART treatment; sometimes simple treatment like IUI can suffice. Dr. Sneha Shetty Consultant Reproductive Medicine, DGO, Fellowship in Minimal Access
